

TODAY'S NEWS TODAY—You get it in the HERALD. Fifty cents a month or 15 cents a week delivered at your door; fifty cents by mail.

TRIBUNE-CITIZEN.
Vol. 26, No. 56.

REVOLUTION THREATENS TO BREAK IN PARIS

M'REYNOLDS PREPARES TO ATTACK COAL TRUST

Regular Army Called Out in Force to Aid Police in Handling Vast Crowds of Excited French.

MME. CAILLAUX NOW A POPULAR HEROINE

Yellow Newspapers Charge She Was Used by Minister as Tool to Get Rid of Dangerous Enemy.

[By Leased Wire to Evening Herald.]
Paris, March 18.—The appearance of armed detachments of expeditionaries posted at strategic points outside Paris added to the tense excitement expressed among the various political factions by the assassination of Georges Clemenceau, editor of the Figaro.

At every point where there is a likelihood of trouble, the police were supported by soldiers.

The office of the Figaro, the chamber of deputies, the residence of Mme. Caillaux, and the Saint Lazare prison, where Mme. Caillaux has occupied a cell since the killing of the editor, were magnets which attracted the populace today.

In the southern part of Paris, in the Latin quarter and in the working quarters, where it is only necessary for a turbulent individual to shriek "Death to Caillaux," or "assassin" for him to be joined by dozens of others, the police kept jealous watch. Several times they cleared away the noisy groups, which regrouped as soon as the police had passed.

Mme. Caillaux a Heroine.

Mme. Caillaux today seems to have become a heroine among all the tumult. Among the crowds of excited, gesticulating people, her name is heard constantly. She is linked with the victim of her love for Caillaux and as his instrument in committing the crime, which has roused the press of a prominent writer and the French cabinet of its leading spirit. The crowds have adopted as their own the assertion of Deputy Leclerc, in the chamber last night that "cabinet members nowadays send their wives to kill those obstructing their path."

The excitement among the populace is worked on by the many yellow newspapers among the 120 daily publications of Paris. These magnify, invent, and hint at things and the paper vendors yell the insinuations among the crowd, exciting the people still further.

Mme. Caillaux meanwhile sleeps on a small iron bedstead in the prison of St. Lazare. Her hitherto remarkably calm attitude was today said to be breaking down under the torture of being always under observation. She is never for a moment left alone. Relays of men, two at a time, sit in the small cell with her, whether she is sleeping or walking. Since these constant companions, prison wardens frequently look into the cell through the finely meshed wire partition in order to see that no breach of the prison regulations is committed.

Students in Pitched Battle.

Twenty University of Paris students belonging to the revolutionary group, began to chant in one of the lecture rooms, "Vive Caillaux," whenupon the other students attacked them. The Caillaux adherents were armed with stout canes and fought desperately, but they finally were overpowered and thrown into the street.

Numerous incidents in which the police were forced to intervene, occurred in the university quarter of the city. There was much disorder in the class rooms.

Political friends of Joseph Caillaux, the finance minister who resigned office yesterday as a sequel to the assassination of Gustave Calmette by Mme. Caillaux are coming strongly to his support. The Radical-Socialist and Radical-Republican groups in the chamber of deputies, comprising about 150 members, held a meeting today at which they adopted unanimously the following resolution:

"We protest against the odious campaign of calumny against M. Caillaux, the editor of France's fiscal reform, and we express to him our sympathy and affectionate confidence."

Holds Extend to Versailles.

Versailles, France, March 18.—Police detachments with great difficulty dispersed today a crowd of several hundred students who paraded the streets demonstrating against Deputy Amédée A. Amias, who had written a letter of congratulation to Madame Caillaux for killing Gustave Calmette. The students gathered in front of the deputy's residence, "Assassin," and cheering for Calmette.

Presidential Nominations.

Washington, March 18.—President Wilson today made three nominations. United States marshal—Daniel E. Blodden of Laramie, Wyo.; for Wyoming; Thomas S. Martin of Boise, Idaho, for Idaho.

EXTENSION BILL FOR FEDERAL PROJECTS PASSED BY SENATE

Washington, March 18.—An administration bill extending to twenty years the time for repayment by water users on government irrigation projects passed the senate today without material amendment. A similar bill is pending in the house.

COLORADO GETS FORTY-SEVEN ELK

[By Leased Wire to Evening Herald.]
Denver, March 18.—Forty-seven elk, sent by the federal forestry service from the Jackson's Hole country, yesterday reached Denver today and were quartered in the stockyards. When the snow is out of the mountains they will be sent to Aspen and Estes park. The government recently announced a policy of distributing elk in the mountains of Colorado.

TODAY IN CONGRESS SENATE

Met at noon.
Senator Jones assailed the President's foreign policy.

The night over the time for voting on the suffrage amendment continued without disposition.

House.

Met at noon.
Calendar day brought up consideration of many special bills.

Interstate commerce committee heard argument favoring giving interstate commerce commission control of gas pipe lines.

[By Leased Wire to Evening Herald.]
New York, March 18.—The Lehigh Valley Railroad company appeared here today to Attorney General McReynolds under the Sherman antitrust law as being the dominant factor in a combination alleged to control the output of anthracite from the Pennsylvania fields it touches.

More than a dozen other corporations and individuals named as co-defendants and parties to conspiracy.

[By Leased Wire to Evening Herald.]
Chicago, March 18.—A second judicial inquiry into the right of Mrs. Harriet L. Janney to keep possession of her son, the kidnapped millionaire, William Ford, was halted today when neither Mrs. Janney nor the child could be found by deputy sheriffs.

Mrs. Janney was discharged yesterday on a writ of habeas corpus after she had told Judge Walker that she was acting for the child's mother and was taking the little girl to San Antonio, where the mother is.

William H. Ford of Philadelphia, the father at whose instance the grandmother and the child were detained in Chicago, declared in court that he should have the custody of his child. When the Philadelphia warrant charging kidnapping was held against him by Judge Walker, Ford submitted a writ of habeas corpus from Judge Felt, charging that his daughter had been deserted by her mother two years ago and was being forcibly detained by Mrs. Janney.

It was expected that the grandmother and child would appear in court today but when deputy sheriffs sought to have them taken to Mrs. Janney was not found at the hotel where she stayed after giving birth.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed as guards. Mrs. Janney and the child, and who are believed to have been employed by her to prevent Ford from seeking to forcibly take the little girl from her grandmother.

Her attorney went before the court and declared that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

In the belief that Mrs. Janney had resumed her journey to the coast the writ was turned over to private detectives.

Two men also came along two men who were dressed